

ANDERSON'S BAZAAR.

Yes, "ANDERSON'S BAZAAR" is the title of the interesting story, and the lives we live there—just Sara and Me together—is a part of it, for existence in a dry goods store isn't lacking in bits of interest, outside of selling goods "all wool and a yard wide." But after all this has been recorded, the half has never yet been told till the public gets an inner knowledge of the "goings on" at the Bazaar this season, since the new goods have begun coming in. So with the clearly defined purpose of enlarging on the preface at some more suitable time, for the present we will just begin with

CHAPTER ONE.

Of this season's edition, and it opens in the middle of September on an elevated plain surrounded by all that please the eye and appeals to the fancy—that is, on the second floor of our Bazaar where we are opening up our line of Ladies Hats and Millinery Goods.

The elegant spring and summer trade in this department goes far to show how the ladies appreciate our efforts to please, but this season we are doubly equipped for the fray. For the past two weeks "Sara" has been flying around the work room of one of the biggest Millinery Houses in Cincinnati and says—and of course she knows—that she just has it all down in proper shape, and can tell everybody exactly what to wear and how to wear it. That's a pretty good thing too and leads on to

CHAPTER TWO.

Our Dress Goods Department—"Is too marvelous to talk about—but you really must ask to see

Our all wool filling dress goods at 90 cents per yard for 400 yds. Our double width all wool dress flannels at 200 yds. Our yard wide grey dress flannel with 40 cents at 200 yds. Our "parlayser"—a British flannel—fine quality in shades, never sold before for less than 70 cents at 100 yds. Our pretty line of stripes and plaids, elegant new styles, latest novelties, all wool, 36 and 38 inches. A lot of fine French plaid—selling goods at 90 cents per yard for 400 yds. And more and more to follow. If ever goods showed the skill of a skilled worker, our Dress Goods Department evidences the fact that S. W. Anderson had his eyes open while buying our stock in New York this season. But this chapter must be abbreviated, and the next one is naturally

CHAPTER THREE.

There's something said somewhere about the third time being the charm. So it is under chapter third we talk about our prices and styles of shoes. Certainly every one is charmed with our fine Dongola Kid Goods in all styles and lasts, of such kid as is sold elsewhere at $2.75 to $3.00—but that can be made up by S. W. Anderson only as an shoe that we sell for one dollar and ninety-nine cents—known everywhere as Anderson's Wonderful $1.99 Shoe. The sales of this shoe in the three Bazaar stores is marvelous and is equalled only by the continued run on our "Wear-for-ever Shoes"—a shoe that for hard constant every day wear has never had its match and that customers come 15 and 18 miles for. In Miami and Childrens shoes we are in the lead. Just as we are in the notion line and Miscellaneous Department that brings us to

CHAPTER FOUR.

Where we could prolong the story infinitely, talking of the big bargains we propose to offer in Trunks, Valises, Carpets, Window Curtain Goods and fixtures; Domestic, Jeans, Tickings, Flannels, Prints and Ginghams, Table Linens, Towels, Hosiery, Umbrellas, Dress Trimming, etc., etc., and so forth, but "Sara & Me" really can't go into "book writs" when we're so much else to do but are ready to enlarge upon and amplify these brief out lines at any time if the folks will continue their welcome visits at our Anderson's Bazaar where the cheap goods will be sold this fall by
